Core lessons in an immersion environment build language skills.

Images. Students learn the meaning of new language from clear, real-life images.

Intuition. Students advance using language they've learned and clues from new images. That's their intuition at work.

Interactivity. In core lessons students constantly interact with the program to confirm their intuition.

Instruction. From beginning to end students build systematically toward their language-learning goals, for the most effective and enjoyable instruction anywhere.

In this activity students learn colors.

Now that they know colors, they can easily grasp the meaning of the new words ...

... and then check what they've learned.

And finally, students get the fun of trying their new language in a real-life simulation. Speech recognition shows students exactly how they're doing.
